LONGINES
GLOBAL CHAMPIONS TOUR

Explained

The 2022 Longines Global Champions Tour kicks off in March with the world's very best riders competing for an unprecedented amount of prize money across LGCT and GCL, and the highly prestigious Championship title.

As well as the overall ranking battle, athletes will be competing for a place in the highly coveted GC Prague Playoffs, the ultimate showdown for the world's best, scheduled this year for November at the O2 Arena in the Czech capital city. Here, winners of each LGCT Grand Prix will be invited to compete in the Longines Global Champions Tour Super Grand Prix, the ultimate head-to-head battle of the season's best.

The 2022 season opens in Doha, Qatar and then travels to 15 further destinations across three continents, culminating in the season Finals where this year's season champion will be crowned.

Show jumping's top riders team up with their best horses for individual honours in a series of spectacular competitions on the tour, with the LGCT Grand Prix as one of the highlights of each event.

To help you keep track of this thrilling series of high octane jumping, here is a brief guide to the format:

1 WHO WILL BE COMPETING IN THE CHAMPIONSHIP?

The world's top riders may take part in any of the 16 LGCT events, earning points and competing for a prize pot of over €300,000 in each of the LGCT Grand Prix.

2 HOW DOES IT ALL BEGIN?

Horses and riders compete in any of the CSI5* supporting classes at each show. This allows horses to acclimatise to each different venue, which ranges from grass to sand surfaces, with different sized arenas and a range of environments, as well as giving riders the chance to win some serious prize money.

3 WHICH RIDERS COMPETE IN THE LGCT GRAND PRIX?

The top 35 riders according to their penalties and time qualify from the previous competition, which also doubles as a second GCL leg, held earlier on the Saturday at each event. Jumping in reverse order of merit from the qualifier, horses and riders begin by jumping over a 1.55m/1.60m course of fences. Any combination that completes on a zero score, or tie on penalties if no combination remains clear, goes through to a jump-off against the clock, held over a shortened course, to decide top honours.

4 HOW DOES THE SCORING WORK?

Points are allocated to each of the 35 riders according to their finishing place in each event's LGCT Grand Prix. Over the season, each rider's top eight scores count towards the overall championship ranking and a share of the bonus prize money, which will be awarded at the season Finals.

5 WHAT ABOUT THE LGCT SUPER GRAND PRIX?

This is the ultimate showdown in show jumping. Each winner (or next highest ranked athlete if more than one event is won), will qualify for a place in this special class, held at the GC Prague Playoffs. This will see the best horses and riders across the season return to face off for the ultimate goal of taking the title of LGCT Super Grand Prix Champion.

Explained

The 2022 GCL season will see show jumping's top riders unite in pursuit of championship glory as they battle it out across the world.

A total of 16 teams line up for this, the sixth season of the GCL. This tactical series will feature LGCT, Olympic and world champions going head-to-head, as well as offering some of the world's leading under-25 riders a chance to compete on the global stage.

The concept is the first top level competition in the sport's history that allows riders from different nations to compete on the same team, providing a breathtaking spectacle of fierce rivalry and immense team spirit in a modern and dynamic format.

The GCL classes take place over two days at each of the global legs of the circuit, running alongside the Longines Global Champions Tour throughout the season. The climax of the year will be the GC Prague Playoffs, as teams battle through the quarter-final, semi-final and final stages of the knockout GCL Super Cup.

The countdown is on and here is a brief guide to the format:

1 HOW DOES IT ALL BEGIN?

The first part of the GCL will be on the opening day of each event and this CSI5* 1.50/1.55m class will see teams' combined scores taken forward to the second class. Two riders from each GCL team compete in each class before the class opens to individual riders. All riders in this class will be chasing Longines world ranking points and teams will be looking to put themselves in pole position ahead of the second round.

2 WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?

The second part of the GCL competition also doubles as a qualifier for the LGCT Grand Prix. It will be a CSI5* 1.55/1.60m class. This takes place on Saturdays at every event before the LGCT Grand Prix. Individual riders, not riding for teams, will be the first to start in this class to try to qualify for the LGCT Grand Prix. Then the GCL teams will take centre stage, carrying through their combined faults from the first class. The results of the GCL riders will count towards their overall team score, but now their performance will also determine whether they qualify for the LGCT Grand Prix as individuals.

The overall winners of the GCL competition will be the team with the least combined faults and the quickest time over the two rounds.

3 HOW DOES THE SERIES PROGRESS?

Teams can change horses and/or riders between the two GCL classes as well as fielding different squads for each of the global legs in the series. Strategy and inter-team strengths will be crucial as different riders and horses are fielded for particular circumstances. Teams will be able to earn points at every single event, all contributing to their place in the season long Championship ranking, as well as tussle for a top place in the all-important GCL Super Cup at the GC Prague Playoffs.

4 SO WHAT ARE THE GC PRAGUE PLAYOFFS?

This stand alone event in November will be the ultimate face-off for the GCL teams. Here teams will go head-to-head in the GCL Super Cup in a three-day high stakes knockout competition.

The teams ranked 5th-16th will compete in the first day quarter-finals, with only eight teams carrying through to the next day's competition—the semi-finals. They will be joined by the top four ranked teams in the Championship, and battle to finish in the top six, making it through to the final. Here the winning team will be crowned GCL Super Cup winners.

5 WHAT HAPPENS IN THE TRANSFER WINDOW?

The transfer windows are at critical points in the season as teams re-evaluate to gain maximum advantage on the road to the GC Prague Playoffs.

6 TEAM STRUCTURE

Teams again have a roster of six riders (including at least one U25 athlete) for the season. This means tactics and strategy will remain a priority for team managers and owners, with a large team of horses and riders to field at each distinctive event. There have been plenty of high profile movers and shakers across the grid, with new allegiances formed and unique partnerships forged deeper still, and this season already promises to be an electric showcase of high-octane team sport.

PEDER FREDRICSON

JUMPED HIS WAY INTO LGCT RANKING LEAD

About last time

It was a sensational Saturday for Peder Fredricson last year with a breathtaking win in the Longines Global Champions Tour of Ramatuelle/Saint-Tropez. The fight for the 2021 season title immediately intensified as the victory catapulted Peder into the Championship lead.

«I wish everyday was like this! Lucky for me it was my day, I was nervous with all the riders still to come.»

It was a sumptuous day of top sport and a stunning destination as the LGCT of Ramatuelle / Saint Tropez delivered a dazzling Mediterranean experience for spectators and fans watching live the highest level of show jumping in another unique signature LGCT destination.

The LGCT Grand Prix of Ramatuelle, Saint-Tropez was brimming with top riders from start to finish delivering a supreme display to show jumping fans worldwide. The testing course built by Gregory Bodo demanded perfection and no room for error with a challenging Longines triple combination, plus a tricky tall Dolce & Gabbana upright that fell at the lightest of touches. Stars such as Christian Ahlmann and Ben Maher were both out of the jump-off to their immense disappointment.

Peder Fredricson took centre stage with Catch Me Not S, taking on the challenge with ease. Fredricson hit the accelerator to the penultimate line, leaving spectators on the edge of their seats wondering whether they would clear it. The talented horse showed all his scope and skill as the pair rounded up to the final stretch, galloping clear in 34.98s to sheer delight from the crowd.

The LGCT Grand Prix win was down to the wire as the final horse and rider entered the arena. Simon Delestre and Hermes Ryan tried everything to claim the coveted ticket to the LGCT Super Grand Prix, the incredible climax to the LGCT season at the O2 Arena in Prague, but the final fence came crashing down and they settled for third place as the fastest on four faults.

SUPER CUP

WHERE TEAMS MEET FOR THE FINAL FACE-OFF

While the rivalry between teams reaches fever pitch this season, the GC Prague Playoffs will provide the perfect platform for the ultimate battle of the best this November as teams fight for supremacy in the coveted GCL Super Cup.

All through the 2022 season, the 16 GCL teams will be fighting tooth and nail for every valuable ranking point, collected at each event on the global circuit. The GCL overall classification is based on each team's points earned at every GCL event and the top four teams will fast-track their way to the semi-finals of the GCL Super Cup.

This golden ticket will be in the minds of team managers as they choose from their roster of six riders throughout the season, playing their star strikers strategically across the very different events - from expansive grass fields of play such as Mexico City to the small sand arena nestled between Monaco's super-yachts, knowing your athletes and their horses will be crucial to a successful season-long campaign.

The GCL Super Cup will consist of team quarter-final, a semi-final and final rounds. The quarter-final, held over one 1.55m round, is open to 12 teams with three riders per team – those placed 5th to 16th on the GCL overall team standings prior to the GC Prague Playoffs. The best eight placed teams according to the aggregate time and penalties for each of the three riders then qualify for the semi-final the following day where they will be joined by the top four teams on the GCL overall team rankings and each of the three team riders will jump one round over 1.60m. The best six placed team competitions then go head-to-head in the final - held over two different 1.60m rounds against the clock without a jump-off.

With 6 million euros on offer for the GCL Super Cup alone, and the promise of passion, drama and glory - the race to the ultimate show down is on.

A Q&amp;A WITH

PremiuMares Founder Milena Pappas

«IT IS ALWAYS IMPORTANT TO REMIND OURSELVE
WHERE IT ALL STARTED»

If their flurry of new Instagram foal pictures is any indication, it's been a busy season for PremiuMares' Founder Milena Pappas. Now in its seventh year of operation, Pappas's boutique breeding business is more than hitting its stride, producing offspring that excel at the top of the sport through a program that embraces premium mare bloodlines and a natural and respectful method of breeding and training young horses.

As a longtime sponsor of the Longines Athina Onassis Horse Show (LAOHS), we caught up with Pappas to discuss her new training partnership with Swedish rider Malin Baryard, a top-rated PremiuMares stallion that very nearly wasn't, and why each mare's success story comes with a little nostalgia for the devoted sport horse breeder.

Q: We love seeing the images of PremiuMares foals arriving in the springtime! What are some of the recent offspring you are most excited about?

A: Springtime is foal time! We have now successfully reached our 7th year of [operation] and things are slowly starting to fall into place.

The first stallion approval out of our breeding program was a 3-year-old called The Eternal Sunshine PM. A son of Emerald and the incredible Itousche V/D Vosberg, he was born and approved by all the well-known auctions back in 2019. [Sadly, his] birth brought the mother complications that led to a terminal colic. The foal was just a few days old [at the time], and at that point, all the auctions suddenly turned their backs on him.

This was heartbreaking, to say the least, as the young foal was strong and healthy. At the last moment, Stal Brouwer included him in their auction, where he was the highest sold foal. Three years later, we were delighted to see him not only approved by the Belgian studbook BWP, but also earning a special remark signifying his good bone quality and the ability to pass it on to his offspring! This, for us as a company, was a very proud moment. But it was also very sentimental, as that same orphaned foal more than proved what he is worth!

Q: Tell us about your first year working with 2020 Olympic team gold medalist Malin Baryard-Johnsson (SWE). How does her riding style suit PremiuMares's ethos?

A: We met Malin last season thanks to our involvement with the Shanghai Swans GCL Team. She is actually riding a mare that I was competing on the circuit, Pocahontas (2015 Perigieux x Escudo). She is a highly competitive horse, very focused and intelligent; it's like she was born to compete! This year, she is seven, and it was a decisive point for me where I could either keep her for myself to enjoy or allow her to develop to her full potential with a professional. Malin has children and spends a good deal of time at home, so she could focus on developing "Poca".

A very important thing to me, though, is Malin's natural style of riding and developing horses. As a general rule, we like to be able to match our horses with a rider that suits them, which helps bring the best out in each horse. We also like to work with different riders, dealers, auctions, and friends. You can learn something from everyone!

Q: In terms of your current crop of young horses, what are some of your goals for the 2022 season?

A: I think for this and the next couple of years, the focus and emphasis will continue to be on the breeding side of things more than on the sport horses. It is our goal to create top damlines that are worth continuing, and that riders and owners [want] to get ahold of.

For the competitions, however, we of course have the GCT circuit, [which is] always thrilling to watch. This is especially true as we have two up-and-coming 8-year-old mares—Jardessa with Pius Schwizer (SUI) and Toulanda degli Assi with Max Kühner (AUT)—that might be coming on!

Q: PremiuMares will be the presenting partner for a special new 'Best Mare' award this year at LAOHS. Why is it important to you to support and recognize the achievements of top female sport horses?

A: The 'Best Mare' award is a new and forward-thinking concept which can and should be embraced by others around the world. A strong pedigree from the damline is, I dare say, more important than the choice of stallion, [and] we have seen the evolution of breeding take giant steps forward since this fact was recognized. From the breeder to the rider who introduces a mare to the sport, to the rider who brings that mare up to [a higher] level, this new award is a great testament to mares and all those involved in their success.

Personally, I also love that after their sport career has come to an end, a mare lives on through her foals, and her legacy continues. This is something we find very sentimental and—dare I say—nostalgic.

It is always important to remind ourselves where it all started and pay tribute.

Q: What do you enjoy most about being a part of the Longines Athina Onassis Horse Show?

A: Saint Tropez is a place where, as an amateur, you can ride, you can learn while observing the top riders, enjoy the pampering [and] offerings around you—have a glass of Rosé wine, enjoy the exquisite food being offered, watch the competition unfold—or go for a swim to cool off if the weather [is warm]. Whilst, for the top level, the challenges are all still there: the thrills, action, speed, and the quality of the courses. What else is there to say?!

RAMATUELLE

A green corner of paradise

From the point of the windmill's sails to the charming stone village and the seashore with its rugged creeks, Ramatuelle offers locals and visitors a unique setting where nature and culture flourish in harmony.

The lookout on the hill

The Moulin de Paillas, restored to its original state shown on plans dating from 1630, stands on high ground, looking out imperiously over the municipality of Ramatuelle. For visitors travelling from the perched village of Gassin, it is Ramatuelle's first landmark, and offers a wonderful view over the Mediterranean.

Winding streets of ancient stone

The old village, entered through gates built by the Saracens, is a charming maze of flower-filled streets and a great place to simply stroll. Highly evocative street names such as Place des Tambourinaires and Rue des Amoureux are part of the discovery of this medieval snail-shaped village enclosed within fortified walls.

The coastal path

Ramatuelle has 16 kilometres of coastline that wind their way between La Croix-Valmer and Saint-Tropez like a colourful ribbon between the blue of the sky and the sea. Ochre-coloured rocks and maritime pines overlook the turquoise waters as you walk between beaches and headlands and around rugged creeks. Discover a true wilderness, and the rare beauty of an outstanding, preserved site.

Magnificent Cap Taillat

The natural isthmus of Cap Taillat is the jewel in Ramatuelle's crown that can be reached only by walkers and sailors. There is no car access to this 'island' that lies cradled in a spit of sparkling white sand surrounded by a dazzling array of all shades of blue.

The treasures of Escalet Beach

This family beach is a real delight, a cove carved out of the hillside with colourful rocks and silvery sand. A beach where you swim surrounded by greenery and where careful underwater observation yields fantastic treasures in the form of the local flora and fauna.

Pampelonne Beach - a new look

The 2019 has witnessed a total renovation of the mythical Pampelonne Beach that has played such a major role in Saint-Tropez's popularity. A development plan that prioritises the preservation and restoration of nature has transformed the beach into something even better. It is now even more beautiful and natural - a return to its original state.

Cultural influences

Ramatuelle's natural setting has long been a backdrop for culture, in the widest sense of the term, culture that is accessible to everyone.
